Chicken Stroganoff

Ingredients

For 4

- 250g chicken breast,
- 150g mushrooms (shiitake, oyster, or king oyster)
- 40g dried mushrooms
- 2 onions
- 8 garlic cloves
- 200g rice
- Oil
- 10g paprika
- 1 chicken stock cube
- 10g cornstarch
- 40g mustard
- 100ml plain yoghurt
- 30g fresh dill
- Salt & black pepper

Directions

Start the Rice

Rinse the rice and cook in the rice cooker with water and a pinch of salt

Wake Up the Dried Mushrooms

Place the dried mushrooms in a bowl and cover with hot water. Leave to soak. Keep both the mushrooms AND the water.

Prep Everything

Grate the garlic, chop the fresh mushrooms, and dice the onions. Cut the chicken into big chunks. Wash your hands after touching the raw chicken!

Season and Sear

Sprinkle the chicken with paprika and a pinch of salt. Heat oil in a pan on high heat and fry the chicken until it starts to turn golden. Add the onions and fresh mushrooms and cook until softened.

Bring It Together

In a cup, mix the cornstarch and crumbled stock cube together. Add the mushroom soaking water a little at a time, stirring until you have a smooth, runny paste with no lumps.

Turn the heat down. Add the soaked dried mushrooms and the stock paste to the pan. Stir well and bring to a gentle boil. The sauce will thicken and turn glossy.

The Creamy Finish

In the same cup, mix the yoghurt, mustard, a pinch of paprika, and the feathery fronds from the dill. Stir this into the pan and turn off the heat. Taste for seasoning — does it need salt? More mustard? Trust your tastebuds.

Check and Serve

Slice the thickest piece of chicken to check it's fully cooked through — no pink! Serve over the rice with extra dill on top.
